Prague.... Beautiful Prague, the capital of Czech Republic... Since the 9th century when the first settlements were formed, Prague has been an architectural jewel in progress. No other European city possesses such a heady concentration of styles – Gothic, Renaissance, Baroque, Art Nouveau, and Czech Modern. Prague's magnificent profile, silhouetted against a bright morning or twilight sky, is something of a vast fairytale panorama.

The history of Prague covers more than a thousand years, during which time the city grew from the Vyšehrad Castle to the capital of a modern European state, the Czech Republic. In the 20th Century alone the city has witnessed a declaration of independence, Nazi control, oppressive communism and capitalist democracy. It's an epic story. For more historical details, visit Prague City Tourism.

Day 5

Breakfast & dinner included; lunch on own

Today we'll explore the Russian history of Prague. Lunch will be on your own today to explore something fabulous!

Behind the Iron Curtain: Communism Tour - This country has a dark period in its history when it was full of paranoia, spying and violence. On this tour, you'll uncover the background and stories from the communist time, having an opportunity to experience how life would have been in the cold-war period. Part of the daily life was spent in fear of a nuclear war. Citizens questioned who would survive and how. Here, the answers lie beneath the ground. After the start of the cold war, the communist regime fell into the permanent paranoia of being under threat of a nuclear attack from the west by their capitalist and imperialist enemies. As a result of defensive policies on both sides of the iron curtain, the people felt it was necessary to prepare for such a nuclear war. This tour reviews the history of communism, spies and lies, communist terror - prisoners, refugees and dissidents, plus cold war stories.

After, we'll break for lunch and then its on to the KGB Museum.

KGB Museum - This small museum was established by a Russian enthusiast and houses a large variety of memorabilia relating to the secret police of the Soviet Union. You may well be shown around by the collector himself and you can expect to find an assortment of spy cameras, secret weapons and interrogation equipment. Another interesting exhibit within the museum are the photographs of Prague taken by a KGB officer in the year of 1968 in which the streets of the city appear eerily empty. Quite unusual pieces, such as the death mask of Lenin, the Trotsky murder weapon, the radio from Beria's cabinet, the equipment from the laboratories of the KGB and many other things are in this collection in KGB Museum in Prague. You can also explore NSC attributes - Special Service of the Czechoslovak People's Republic.

In the late afternoon, have free time for some last-minute shopping or museums. If you're interested in local museums, some possibilities may include the Museum of Alchemy, National Gallery Prague, Museum of Senses Prague, and the Czech Museum of Music.

This evening we'll have an early dinner at our hotel, take time to dress in a dashing outfit, then we're in for a real treat. Tonight we'll visit the Czech Opera for a night of stunning culture.

Prague's beautiful melody!

Music plays a most important role in Prague, making the capital a city where the melodies and airs of the great composers ring out on every street corner. Every church and grand house presents a concert or a recital in the evening, transforming the city into one giant concert hall. Dependent upon what is offered, your group will get to explore an experience at one of these incredible locations.

The three main theatres are the Národní divadlo, the Státní opera, and the Stavovské divadlo:

The Národní divadlo (National Theatre) is the most famous Czech theatre. The theatre opened for the first time in 1881. After 11 performances, the theatre burnt down and was closed. Josef Schulz rebuilt the building by merging three buildings and the theatre reopened in 1883. An annex was added, then a major refurbishing of the theatre's interior took place in 1977.

The Státní opera (State Opera) has always been the Národní's main competitor. The Neuer Deutscher Theater opened in 1888 and was directed by Germans to rival the Czechs. After the German troops left the city in 1945, the Czech acquired the Neuer Deutscher Theater and renamed it the Great Opera of May 5th. The theatre was linked to the national theatre and renamed Smetana Theatre in 1949. After 1989, Karel Drgáč became the first director of the freshly renamed Státní opera.

The Stavovské divadlo (Theatre of the States) is older than the other theatres. It opened in 1783 and was meant for Italian and German operas, but the venue also showed other international productions and Czech productions. Mozart's "Don Giovanni" was created here in 1787 and was a success. His "La clemenza di Tito" was also created here in 1791. Some parts of the movie "Amadeus", which relates Mozart's life, were filmed in the Stavovské divadlo.
