Ghana... AKWAABA. It's an expression you'll hear several times daily as you travel around Ghana, one that will ring in your ears at night, and bring a smile to your face for weeks after you leave. Welcome to a haven that combines the charms of a tropical beach idyll with a fascinating historical heritage, rich cultural variety, and some interesting wildlife in the national parks.

Ghana is a country in West Africa, along the Gulf of Guinea, just a few degrees north of the equator. Ghana lies in the center of the West African coast and shares 2,093 km of land borders with the three French-speaking nations of Burkina Faso (548 km) to the north, Côte d'Ivoire (668 km) to the west, and Togo (877 km) to the east. To the south are the Gulf of Guinea and the Atlantic Ocean. With a total area of 238,533 square kilometers, Ghana is about the size of the United Kingdom, or slightly smaller than Oregon.

The wonderful diversity of natural attractions, historical heritage and the vibrant cultural identity offers visitors of Ghana a microcosmic taste of Africa. After settling in, we'll embark on an exploratory tour to discover Jamestown:

Jamestown in old Accra - Among the more vibrant and colorful neighborhoods in Greater Accra, Jamestown is where history resides on every corner. Best known for its lighthouses, the first of which was constructed in 1875 by the British as navigational aids for trading vessels sailing through the Gulf of Guinea. The original structure was ruined, however a larger and more improved lighthouse was completed in 1921 and is still functioning today.

Jamestown is an intense section of Accra, loaded with activities all day long. There's a lot of history here, the Portuguese and the British left behind interesting architecture. Though somewhat ramshackle, the area has a mixture of historical buildings between their much later model painted storefronts and makeshift structures. Though hard scrabble, the area has produced some of Ghana's most prominent citizens including the country's most accomplished boxers. Among them is Africa's undisputed greatest, Azumah Nelson. Here you will find an abundance of boxing 'gyms', all in search of the latest standout pugilist. In this lively, community-oriented section of the city, there are chickens, children and lots of laughter.

Visit "Brazil House" and learn about the seven Afro-Brazilian families who returned to settle in Ghana in 1836 after slavery was abolished in Brazil. Familiar Brazilian/Portuguese last names such as De Souza, Palmares, Azumah, Amorin, Da Costa, Santos, De Medeiros, and Olympio are abundant in this section of Accra.

Other activities today will depend on your available time and preference. We'll plan on an early dinner and good nights' rest!

Day 3

Breakfast, lunch & dinner included

Your first full day in Ghana! After a sumptuous buffet breakfast at your hotel, we'll set off to see busy, bustling Accra and vicinity, passing through the economic and administrative districts.

Visits today will include:

- Independence Square where you will see the enclosed flame of African liberation, which was lit by Dr. Kwame Nkrumah in 1961.
- W.E.B. Du Bois Center honoring the life of one of the most prominent Pan-Africanists who chose to live and work in Ghana.
- The Kwame Nkrumah Memorial Park, final resting place of Ghana's first president. Set in attractive gardens, there is an adjoining museum, which contains photos, artifacts and an insight into Dr. Nkrumah's life.
- The Casket-making Shop - where uniquely designed caskets are made. The shop was started by Seth Kane Kwei in the 1950s, almost by accident. He made palanquins, also known as Litters or Sedan Chairs that are used to carry tribal chiefs at traditional festivals. One chief, who had ordered a palanquin shaped as a cocoa pod died unexpectedly before the festival, so he was buried in the palanquin. Soon after that his grandmother, who had planned her first overseas trip by flight, died before the trip and she too was buried in a coffin shaped like an airplane. “The third fancy coffin was for a chief fisherman who was buried in a canoe. Thus, the fancy coffin industry was started.

This evening visit one of Accra’s main shopping malls. Here you can compare prices with those at home and ‘people watch’ to see if Ghanaians go about bargain hunting any different from you do.

Day 4

Breakfast, lunch & dinner included

ACCRA – KAKUM NATIONAL PARK- CAPE COAST CASTLE

In the early morning, we’ll depart to Elmina/Cape Coast in Ghana’s Central Region. We pass by several fishing villages arriving in Cape Coast in approximately two hours. We start by visiting Kakum National Park, one of Africa’s famous rainforest canopy walkways. This beautiful tropical rainforest and the canopy walkway are sure to be one of the highlights of your time in Ghana. The walkway consists of a series of 7 bridges, attached to 7 emerging trees, 40 meters above the rainforest floor. Prepare to take a deep breath as you walk the suspended bridges. You will marvel at the breathtaking views that stretch for miles across the rainforest as you rest on the tree platforms. After completing the bridge walk, return to the park headquarters where we find an Information Center that offers an informative overview of the park’s flora and fauna. Over 40 different mammal species have been recorded within the park, including forest elephants, leopards and primate species to mention a few. We stop for lunch at Han’s Cottage Boatel. Han’s is built over a lake containing Nile crocodiles and set in a beautiful location surrounded by tropical rainforest. It is an original and comfortable establishment, teeming with bird life and is an excellent place to enjoy refreshments before setting off on the next excursion.

After Kakum we’ll visit Cape Coast Castle, a UNESCO world heritage site. The castle is a thought-provoking monument to a harrowing period in the region’s history. You will take an emotional journey through the castle which held more enslaved Africans than any other in the region, viewing the dungeons and the infamous “Door of No Return”. The castle houses a historical museum which explains the history of the castle and of Cape Coast itself.

This evening we travel along the ocean to see the many colorful fishing boats bringing their daily catch into the harbor and a short distance away, see the boat builders, still building colorful fishing boats using traditional tools and methods spanning centuries.

CAPE COAST – WINNEBA (approximately a 2-hour transfer)

Today we depart from Cape Coast and travel to Winneba in Ghana's eastern region. On the way, we will stop at Anomabu and visit Fort William. Fort William was considered one of the most structurally significant forts built in Ghana. The original structure of the fort includes a large prison specifically built to hold slaves awaiting shipment. It is reported that from January 1702 to August 1708 more than 30,000 Ghanaians were shipped from Fort William to the island of Barbados.

Arrive in Winneba and visit Challenging Heights facilities where you will be assisting during the next few days.

Challenging Heights is a non-government agency working to end child trafficking, reduce child slavery and promote children's rights.

Who is Challenging Heights?

We are local people committed to protecting the rights of children and ending child trafficking. We have about 60 staff members between our office in Winneba and our Hovde House shelter who work in the coastal communities of Ghana and with international coalitions of NGOs dedicated to fighting modern slavery and protecting children's rights. We aim to reduce and prevent child trafficking and protect children's rights in Ghana. This happens through our three core programs:

Rescue & Recovery

We directly rescue children in forced labor and offer a holistic program of rehabilitation and reintegration. With support from the Hovde Foundation we built a rehabilitation center that can offer continuous survivor rehabilitation and recovery support. In addition, we work with communities to help survivors and the vulnerable continue to live in freedom, as well as train Community Child Protection Committees to protect children.

Prevention

We have identified a number of the root causes for child trafficking in the source communities where we work and are addressing them through community engagement and a variety of programs. We aim to address poverty, both in the ways our community members are currently experiencing it and its cyclical nature, through economic empowerment programs for women and youth. We are promoting children's rights to education with our community library and working with schools to reduce the barriers to access. Our presence in the community through Community Child Protection Committees and Alternative Dispute Resolution gives people a chance to prevent and avoid trafficking before it begins.

Advocacy

We are vocal advocates of human rights. We seek strong engagement with lawmakers, government agencies, civil society organizations, local and multinational agencies, media and other stakeholders. We strive to ensure that decision-making and policy formulation are participatory and take an integrated approach to the needs of children; assessing the impact of social and economic policies on women and children at the local, national and international level is central to this. We campaign for children's rights and seek to promote the prosecution of traffickers.
